Dear Mr. Stojan:

Each week I receive more manuscripts than my research program permits me to read. Therefore, if a quick glance at a paper does not suggest to me that I will find it valuable, I return it immediately to sender. With so imperfect a method, I am sure to often fail to recognize works of real merit but time does not permit me to use a better method.

Therefore, I am returning to you your recent 10 page work concerning your new economic paradigm.

Sincerely yours,

Paul A. Samuelson
